World Sustainable Energy Days 2021

What is it all about?

Europe has the ambitious goal of becoming the first climate neutral continent by 2050. The Green Deal and the EU Climate Law are first concrete steps. The current economic challenges are also an opportunity to accelerate decarbonisation and to create a fairer society and a more competitive economy.

In 2021, the conference - which attracts over 600 participants from over 60 countries each year - shows how we can make a green recovery happen in practice and how the energy transition can contribute as an investment engine to this deep transformation.

In just 3 days, the event offers delegates a comprehensive package:

- 6 dedicated conferences
- a major tradeshow on building efficiency and renewable energy
- technical site visits
- networking with sustainable energy businesses, research and policy makers
